MRS. CHARLES A. BLANTON, of 300 West Grace Street, entertained at a handsome reception, given in her home yesterday afternoon and evening, in honor of Miss Mary McFadden and Miss Mary Irving, who are Miss McFadden's house guests. The parlor was decorated with white chrysanthemums and roses against palms. In the dining room the color scheme was developed in yellow and green.

Mrs. Blanton wore blue chiffon cloth, hand embroidered, over blue satin, and carried American Beauties.

Miss Mary McFadden had on yellow marquisette, veiled with white chiffon, and trimmed with pearls and crystals. Miss Mary Irving wore white chiffon, land-painted in rose sprays, over pink liberty satin, with gold trimmings. Both young women had bouquets of white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Standing in the receiving line were Mrs. Thomas Cary Johnson, of Union Theological Seminary, in black Chantilly lace, and Miss Lucy Wallace, in black net over pink satin. Mrs. Johnson and Miss Wallace carried chrysanthemums.

The parlors were thronged with Richmond society, the reception opening the season brilliantly.

The married contingent called during the afternoon, and the young society set among the men and girls came in for the evening's entertainment.

LEAVES FREDERICKSBURG.

Rev. John R. Rosebro Accepts Call to South Carolina—Other News.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Fredricksburg, Va., November 9.—Rev. John R. Rosebro has accepted a call as pastor of a Presbyterian Church at Wilshire, S. C., and left here this week to assume his duties.

His family is now in Baltimore, but will join him shortly.

When Sheriff T. B. Gill, of Caroline county, went to the jail Monday night to give the prisoners their supper, a German prisoner, by the name of Bruno slipped by the sheriff and escaped through the outer door. It was dark, and the prisoner was soon lost to sight, being footed for the sheriff.

The sheriff has offered a reward of $25 for his recapture.

Judge A. W. Wallace, of this city, has been invited by the executive committee of the Virginia State Bar Association, to prepare and read a paper before the next annual meeting of the association, which will be held at Hot Springs, August 8, 9, 10, 1911. Judge Wallace is requested to select his own subject.

RETURNS HOME AFTER STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Richmond, Va., November 9.—Rawley Reedy, the Rockingham farmer who disappeared so mysteriously from his home in the Amberley section, has been sighted by the sheriff at his home the other night, much to the surprise and joy of his wife and four children. On September 2 Reedy started on a journey, and was not seen again until he was sighted last night. Searching parties scoured two counties, the telephone and the telegraph were kept busy, but no news was given up, and the wife tried to console herself as best she could. Reedy came back, however, "just in time to vote," and gave no explanation of his strange action. He said that he had been out working in a tannery in Bluefield, W. Va.

THIEVES ENTER GRAVE AND TAKE VALUABLES.

Danville, Va., November 9.—News reached this city this afternoon from Mountain Hill that the grave of Mr. Milam, who died there about a year ago, had been entered by some unknown persons and several articles of value buried with his body had been taken from the casket. The community is much wrought up over the occurrence. Details of the grave robbery are meagre, owing to the remote location.

DAVIDSON SELECTS MEN FOR THE WOFFORD DEBATE

Contest Will Be Held in Charlotte on December 6—Football Season Nears Close.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Davidson, N. C., November 9.—The preliminary debate for the Davidson-Wofford contest was held in the Shearer Hall Monday night. At that time two men were chosen, one from each society, to represent Davidson College in the intercollegiate debating contest, which takes place in Charlotte December 6.

The winners were James Allan, Jr., Charleston, S. C., and M. S. Huske, Fayetteville, N. C.

Football.

Davidson has only two more games to play before the season is over. The victory over North Carolina University shows the speed of the Presbyterian machine. The next game is with the University of South Carolina. The last game is with Wake Forest, in Charlotte, Thanksgiving Day.

Tennis.

Kerr Brothers, of Baltimore, won the tennis championship last week. Crawford, from Rock Hill, S. C., won singles. The first game is with the University of North Carolina, which takes place on Davidson's court November 21. The second is with Erskin on the 23d.
